

ABSTRACT

A method and a device for reminding of an unanswered call, in which method a call comes into a mobile phone, the method comprising identifying the telephone number of the caller from the call that comes into the mobile phone in identification means (18), leaving the call unanswered, transferring the information referring to the telephone number of the caller of the unanswered call into a memory unit (20), and reminding the user of the unanswered call at a later point of time.

(Figure 1)